

Professional Reference Letter

Ángel Lara

To whom it may concern:

This letter certifies that Ángel Lara completed his internship in our Cloud & AI team, collaborating with the Solution Engineering area on initiatives related to artificial intelligence, applied innovation and business scenarios for enterprise customers.

During this period, Ángel took part in activities aimed at connecting technological capabilities with real use cases, especially in sectors such as banking and insurance. His work included preparing demonstrations, supporting materials and presentations linked to AI solutions applied to specific business needs.

In the context of his internship, he had the opportunity to work with scenarios aimed at executive audiences and to contribute to presentations and demonstrations for relevant companies in the Spanish market, including IBEX 35 companies.

We would like to highlight the potential Ángel has shown to grow professionally in environments that combine technology, curiosity to learn, customer orientation and applied innovation. We believe he can add value to teams looking for young talent with an interest in artificial intelligence, digital transformation and solving complex business problems through technology.

Throughout this period he has proven to be a highly capable professional, able to take part in complex projects with great autonomy and problem-solving ability.

For all these reasons, we recommend that his candidacy be considered for professional opportunities in which he can continue growing, learning and developing his full potential.

We remain available to provide any additional information that may be useful.

Sincerely,

Álvaro Segura
